Students Serving in Remote Areas

In February, I traveled with my class to Zapote, Escuintla for our annual Servant Days trip. We stayed at a church and helped to build a school as well as did a drama program for the children in the neighborhood.

Zapote is a small remote village located at the base of the volcano Fuego, where the people's main income come from working in the coffee or sugar cane fields. Unfortunately, this type of work only provides employment for part of the year, leaving them with no income the rest of the time. Here are some pictures from our trip.

Loving on the children

See the volcano ahead . . . Yep that's where we went!

This past month we have also continued our adult English classes and have begun planning for our summer mission teams. Edgar is working hard at seminary and at the university. My sister Angelica was able to come visit us for the month of February. During her time here she helped at CAG in the elementary classes as well as taught an English class to some young boys at the church. It was really fun having her visit and she was a big help!

Hi Everyone!

I hope this newsletter finds you all well! Thank you so much to all of you who have joined our support team over the last few months! We are excited and grateful that you are part of our ministry. Unfortunately, we are still behind on our financial support. We need $350 more in monthly donations! Please consider becoming one of our partners and helping us to continue our work here. Also, if you or your church is interested in becoming involved in mission trips to Guatemala, please contact us for more information. We are excited about new opportunities for missions that are opening up to us. Please keep our safety and the safety of our community here in your prayers as well as the country of Guatemala. This country is passing through a very hard time. I cannot share too many details but you can find more information on the internet. ¡Muchas Bendiciones!
